

Kate won the 2005 Sensis Student Journalism Award for an article published in 'Eureka Street' magazine. She says the award gave her great encouragement to pursue a career in the media.

After graduating from RMIT Journalism, Kate was hired as a trainee rural reporter with the ABC in Gippsland. She later worked for ABC News and SBS Radio.

In 2011, she wrote her Master's thesis on journalist source protection law at the University of Edinburgh.

She now lives in the UK and works as a broadcast journalist for the BBC.